

This block contains a large grid on graph paper. A vertical red line runs down the center of the grid. The grid contains very faint, illegible markings that appear to be bleed-through from the reverse side of the page. The markings are organized in columns, with the red line serving as a central axis.